Sports Information

Why do we Play Sport?

At Special Olympics, a more inclusive world begins with sports, and the impact extends far beyond the playing field. Athletes learn skills like discipline and teamwork, which are directly transferrable to schools, workplaces, healthcare, and communities.

What is Divisioning?

Special Olympics competitions are structured so that athletes compete with other athletes of similar ability in equitable divisions. This practice marks one of the fundamental differences between Special Olympics competitions and those of most other sports organizations.

What is Unified Sports® Experience?

Special Olympics Unified Sports® Experiences are a series of non-official Special Olympics sports exhibition activities that bring together Special Olympics athletes with professional and Olympic sports personalities, dignitaries, celebrities, and fans in fun and competitive sports events.
Sport Specific Information

Sailing

— Number of athletes that are participating: 57
— Unified Sport? Yes

Special Olympics Feature:
The Special Olympics Sport Rules for sailing are based on the "Racing Rules of Sailing" by World Sailing. The score of each team at its level is based on the total number of race results without the worst result after four races. The winning team will receive one point, the second-placed team two points, and so on. The overall winner is the team with the lowest total number of points at the end of all races sailed.

We have sailing competitions in three levels of performance:
1. The athletes are responsible for the trim of the head sail.
2. The athletes are responsible for the control of the helm during the entire race.
3. The athletes sail with a Unified partner on board. However, they have complete control of the boat.
