Sports Information

Why do we Play Sport?

At Special Olympics, a more inclusive world begins with sports, and the impact extends far beyond the playing field. Athletes learn skills like discipline and teamwork, which are directly transferrable to schools, workplaces, healthcare, and communities.

What is Divisioning?

Special Olympics competitions are structured so that athletes compete with other athletes of similar ability in equitable divisions. This practice marks one of the fundamental differences between Special Olympics competitions and those of most other sports organizations.

What is Unified Sports® Experience?

Special Olympics Unified Sports® Experiences are a series of non-official Special Olympics sports exhibition activities that bring together Special Olympics athletes with professional and Olympic sports personalities, dignitaries, celebrities, and fans in fun and competitive sports events.
